

Do You Know the Score?

6 Things that Can Keep You above NSLDS's 90% Threshold

90%

Each month, National Student Loan Data System (NSLDS) calculates a score based on the data it accepts through the NSLDS Enrollment Roster/Student Status Confirmation Report (SSCR) process. If your institution receives a score below 90 percent for "Percent Certified with Program Enrollment," you may receive a compliance notice from Federal Student Aid (FSA). Paying attention to these six things can help you keep your score at 90 percent and above.

Missing Program-Level Data

Confirm that your institution is accurately reporting program-level information to the Clearinghouse.

NSLDS Enrollment Roster Errors

Submit student enrollment updates related to NSLDS Enrollment Roster errors using the Clearinghouse's NSLDS Error Response functionality.

COD-Related Discrepancies

Certify students with new program data reported to NSLDS by the Common Origination and Disbursement (COD) system. Contact NSLDS to resolve COD-related discrepancies.

Undeclared and Undecided Majors

Properly report CIP codes for students in degree-seeking programs, who do not have declared majors (see NSLDS Enrollment Reporting Guide, section 4.2).

Student Behavior

If a large percentage of your students are not in degree-seeking programs at your institution, contact NSLDS for a custom score threshold (See NSLDS Newsletter 58).

Consortium Agreements

Ensure that students who are attending under consortium agreements are properly reported by their home institutions.
